HELPING PEOPLE BE MORE FORGIVING

In four primarily lecture-based sessions, we explore what forgiveness is, the latest clinical research on it, the five-step REACH Forgiveness program to help people forgive, and spend most of the time discussing interventions you can use in your practice to promote forgiveness-individual counseling, couple counseling, groups, do-it-yourself workbooks as an adjunct to therapy, and even more systemic interventions with churches and our often contentious society.

Keynote Speaker: Everett Worthington, Ph.D., is Commonwealth Professor Emeritus working from the Department of Psychology at Virginia Commonwealth University. He continues to be active in research and speaking around the world. He is a licensed Clinical Psychologist in Virginia. He has published over 37 books and over 400 articles and scholarly chapters, mostly on forgiveness, humility positive psychology, marriage, and family topics and religion and spirituality.

Saturday April 7th 8:30am - 5:00pm MST

"Eremos" is Greek for wilderness, desert. It is the same root word that is used to describe the desert mothers and fathers. It is the name of this consulting group because it speaks to the sense of isolation, wandering, and helplessness that can occur in the wilderness, and yet also calls to the hope, nurture, renewal, and clarity that one also finds in the wilderness. It is during this complex experience of lostness, profound awe, fear, and ultimately clarity of purpose where Eremos Consulting seeks to be a resource and consultant with those going through such an experience.

At this time of year we are celebrating Easter in the Christian tradition and also the Jewish Passover. Both traditions highlight remembering and forgiving, honoring wilderness experiences. In both of these traditions we choose to delve deeper into the letting go of what was and instead move more fully into the presence and leadership of the Holy Other in our lives.

On April 7th, there is a special opportunity to participate in a conference led by Dr. Everitt Worthington on FORGIVENESS. It will be available via live-streaming so people from across the country can participate, as well as in-person for those able to get to Denver, Colorado. I hope that you'll participate no matter where you are ... a treat for us personally, and also informative for all of us who work with people struggling with betrayal, pain, abuse, and whether forgiveness is possible.
